~11 orders

Primary n=23, our calc

On a ₹300 BPC product earning ₹27 per order, a creator needs ~11 orders to recover the upfront cost. 77.7% buy every BPC product before earning anything. Median upfront spend is ₹3,500/month.

Meesho does not pay commission on returned orders. Beauty has the lowest return rate among major categories: 4–12% vs 20–40% for fashion. A creator's commission is safest in BPC and nobody has told them.

Hypothesis	Verdict	Count	Best quote	Mapping
Upfront cost is the barrier to entry; platform trust dictates willingness to promote	[supported]	14/18	I spent ₹3,500 on creams to test out and made ₹150 in commission. Pocket se paisa jaa raha tha. Plus, if I link a fake product, my audience will roast me.	P1 value chain · P3 rationale
She cannot tell which SKUs sell — only what they pay	[supported]	20/23	The app just shows 9% commission. I have no idea which lipsticks actually get bought or returned. I'm just guessing what to post	Creator Insights
Agency SLAs force 'fake reviews' without actual skin testing	[supported]	11/14	Agencies demand the reel in 48 hours. I just do a hand-swatch and read the brand's script. You can't test a serum in two days.	ASCI Risk / Marketplace
Having no profile costs her buyer trust and repeat viewers	[supported]	18/23	My followers constantly DM me asking, 'Where is that sunscreen you showed last month?' Because Meesho doesn't give me a dedicated storefront or creator profile, I lose repeat buyers every single week	Profile + Milestones
Fashion creators face no equivalent cost — the control test	[supported]	4/5	Fashion has zero sunk cost. I buy 6 kurtas on COD, film the entire haul in 2 hours with the tags tucked in, and return whatever I don't like. Beauty forces you to open the bottle—you eat 100% of the cost.	P1 persistent heading
Her content stops earning once the reel drops out of the feed	[mixed]	15/23	Reels are dead after 48 hours. If someone doesn't buy immediately from my story link, the commission is gone forever. Only YouTube videos bring in trickle sales, but short-form pays nothing after day two.	Video Resurface

Interview Transcript

Q1. Can you please brief us about the your content, style and category, follower count, etc.?

I make mostly beauty product reviews and fashion content. It's a mix. I do not create VC content like that frequently but once or twice in two weeks I upload a reel related to some beauty products. I started creating content around 7-8 months before and I only make Instagram Reels. I have around 3,000 followers right now on my Instagram page.

Q2. Do you earn money through content creation? If so what are your income streams? Are you associated with any agency or affiliate program?

Yes I have started earning money but I am mostly using agency and I have received a few brand deals. My follower count is not so great so big brands do not give me any kind of deals yet. Some middle-level brands can sometimes give you a deal but then they pay very little. Most of my income is coming through agencies. Affiliate program I have recently started. I am using Flipkart and Wishlink.

Q3. What do you say is the difference between an affiliate program and getting deals through agencies from the perspective of a creator?

The main difference is that when we are approached by agencies they just give us a script or sometimes it is completely on us but they always send you the product. It just comes to my home and I get the script by mail. I just need to review the product as per the script. For affiliate the problem is that if I do not already have a product I'll specifically need to buy that. After that the money depends on how many people are getting through my link so I am unsure how much money I will earn through it. Direct deals are better because they tell you the money upfront. This is what you are going to receive. Sometimes there is no money but they just send the product and then the product is yours.

Q4. Since you are already in the BPC creation and you are also aware of affiliate programs, have you ever tried the Meesho affiliate program for creators? Will you be willing to join this program anytime soon?

I can join. There is no problem as such but if I'm already getting upfront money for posting a review and I don't even need to try the product myself (I just need to show the bottle), then it's a bit of friction for me to join a program and wait for people to click the link and receive the product there is one more problem with Meesho. A friend of mine actually received a fake product and she realized it after trying the product so she could not even return it and it could also have been harmful for her. Therefore I personally do not trust Meesho so much. Why are you selling something at half the price? And if I recommend something like this to some of my viewers and if they find something fake, then they'll also call me out so I just don't want to take the risk. I know there is something called Meesho Verified Products on the mall but if I can advertise products from somewhere else, I will not prefer Meesho.

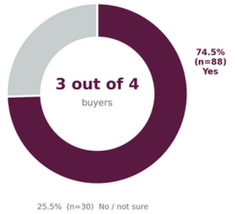

The question that separates this research from a survey: "Do you know which products actually sell, or only the commission rate?" Every creator was asked it, and the answer drives Lever 3.

Survey Results

Has a Creator's Video Ever Driven a Purchase?

N = 118

25.5% (n=30) No / not sure

Takeaway: Creator-led discovery is the primary funnel, not a nice-to-have — 3 in 4 buyers already convert this way.

The Discovery Funnel Leak

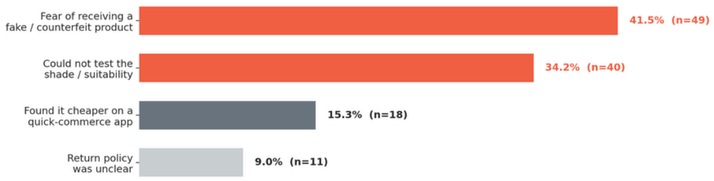

When a user taps a creator's external Instagram link • Base n = 88 (respondents who buy via creator content)

Takeaway: Nearly half of high-intent creator traffic leaks off-platform — native PDP video capture is the fix.

Top Drivers of BPC Cart Abandonment

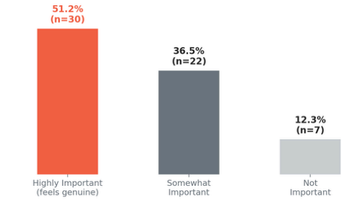

Survey question: primary reason for abandoning last cart • N = 118

Takeaway: 75.7% of drop-off is trust & suitability, not price — validating Verified Mall + PDP Video levers.

Importance of Vernacular (Regional Language) Reviews

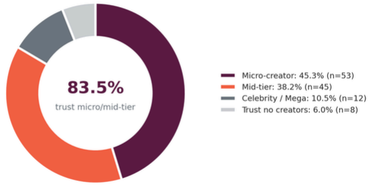

Base: Tier-2/3 respondents only • n = 59

Takeaway: Over half of Tier-2/3 users need native-language reviews to feel a review is genuine.

Which Creator Tier Do You Trust Most?

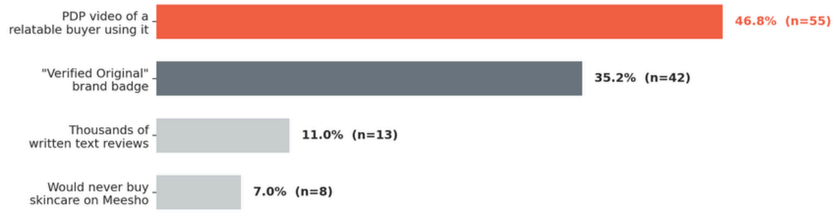

N = 118

Takeaway: Nano/micro creators are the trust leaders — the marketplace should prioritize this tier over celebrities.

Trust Triggers for a ₹200 Face Cream

"What would give you most confidence to complete the order?" • N = 118

Takeaway: Relatable video beats text reviews 4-to-1 as the top purchase-confidence trigger.

Hypothesis vs Research Inferences (Interviews+Survey)

1. Price Cannot Overcome the Trust Deficit

Hypothesis: Meesho's core value proposition (extreme affordability) is enough to drive BPC conversion.
Verdict - [Killed]: 75.7% of cart abandonment is driven by fear of fakes and shade mismatches, not price. Field respondents explicitly demanded "verified original badges" over discounts, proving that without the Meesho Mall trust layer, cheap BPC inventory simply will not convert.

2. Off-Platform Discovery Leaks Conversion

Hypothesis: External Instagram/YouTube links are an efficient way to acquire BPC buyers.
Verdict - [Killed]: While 3 out of 4 buyers are influenced by creators, 48.2% drop off immediately upon hitting the app due to UI friction and price mismatches. External links generate intent but fail at fulfillment, validating the immediate need for native Video Resurface on the PDP.

3. Relatability Beats Aspiration in Tier-2/3

Hypothesis: BPC requires polished, aspirational mega-influencers to drive sales.
Verdict - [Killed]: 83.5% of users trust micro or mid-tier creators, and over half of Tier-2/3 buyers consider vernacular language critical for authenticity. Buyers want to see their exact skin tone and hear their local dialect, validating the Brand-Creator Marketplace pilot to bypass Mumbai-centric agencies.

4. Friction is Highly Category-Specific

Hypothesis: All BPC sub-categories suffer from the same online shopping barriers.
Verdict - [Killed]: Early field signals showed high online penetration for Face Creams (78.6%), but massive offline preference for Foundation (64.3% avoiding online). Skincare is blocked by counterfeit fears, while cosmetics are blocked by shade mismatch. Relatable PDP video is the only lever that simultaneously solves both.

5. The "Sunk Cost" Consumer Reality

Hypothesis: Buyers will test new BPC products if the return policy is easy.
Verdict - [Killed]: Field data shows severe hesitation to try unknown SKUs because buyers assume they will eat the cost of a reaction or mismatch. This mirrors the exact upfront cost barrier creators face, proving that financial friction (solved by Creator Pay Later) exists on both sides of the marketplace.
